

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore – They say the hardest out to get in baseball is the last one, and that was certainly the case on Tuesday as the Henley Hornets (28-2) fell to the Marist Catholic Spartans (20-9) in the semifinals 7-6.

Henley led 6-3 with two outs in the seventh inning, but a pair of singles from Niko Lebya and Tanner Mullens and a three-run homerun from Peyton Tyner tied the game. Marist would add one more run in the eighth with another two-out rally, ending with a Stephen Riley RBI single.
